

BRITAIN ASKS FOR ARMY OF 4,000,000

New Estimates Provide for Daily Expenditure of $15,000,000.

AIR DEFENCE EXTENDED

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, March 14.—Harold J. Tennant, Under Secretary for War, introduced the army estimates bill in the House of Commons today. The measure calls for an army of 4,000,000 men, at an expense, including munitions, of $15,000,000 ($15,000,000) daily.

Mr. Tennant said that it was not in the public interest to give the number of men now serving in the army or in training. He paid a tribute to the wonderful discipline of the men, considering their short training period, and to the success of the recruiting scheme as an augury of victory.

The Government and the Minister of Munitions, he said, were considering the question of single men entering the munition factories to escape military service. It was impossible, he said, to undertake that every man in the munition factories should be taken before any married man.

"Energetic steps are being taken," Mr. Tennant said, "to identify the lists of those in 'reserved occupations' and those in 'starred' and reserved occupations are being revised and the Government's pledge will be faithfully carried out. Lord Derby will not let married men down. Officers would be selected from the ranks. Before they are gassed they will receive four months' training in a special corps."

During the present financial year, he said, 11,000,000 army garmen would be made. 2,000,000 goat skins had been prepared for the men in the trenches.

Mr. Tennant read a message from Sir Douglas Haig, commander in chief of the British army in France, testifying to the excellent provision made for the army. Sir Douglas Haig added:

"All are in good health and good heart and are confident of victory."
The Under Secretary for War proposed to apply the scale of air defence agreed upon for London to the whole country. Great Britain, he said, was now providing monthly as many qualified air pilots as was able to mobilize from all her resources in August, 1914. This output, he said, would be largely increased in the near future. The supply of aircraft, he said, was satisfactory and was ahead of the supply of engines and pilots.

Noel Pemberton Billing, the former member of the House of Commons, made a speech in the course of the estimates debate. He urged a more aggressive air policy and advised the Admiralty should order that all existing material be employed in raiding German territory.

FRANCE NEEDS $1,560,000,000.

Cost of the War Is Increasing at a Rapid Rate.

PARIS, March 14.—Credits amounting to $400,000,000 ($1,560,000,000) are needed for the second quarter of 1916, Raoul Peret, reporter of the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies, announced yesterday in the Chamber.

The increasing cost of the war to France and also to all the other nations is shown by the fact that for the entire year of 1915 the total expenses were $2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000), while for the first half of 1916 the sum of $1,560,000,000 ($6,240,000,000) is required. The total expenses for 1914, up to July 1, 1916, will be about $1,700,000,000 ($6,800,000,000), of which $1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) is for the war.

Sweden Preparing for War.
Air Defence Organized for Stockholm. It is Reported.

COPENHAGEN, March 14.—Reports have reached here that Sweden is making preparations for war. It is stated that organizations have collected, with the sanction of the Government, 700,000 kroner ($180,000) for the defence of Stockholm against air raids.

Anti-aircraft guns, it is said, are being placed on the hills about Stockholm, and aeroplanes have been purchased.

Rumors that Sweden would join Germany to fight against Russia have been published several times, but they have always been denied. The sympathy of the Swedish people for the Allies under the Russian Government and the fear that Russia would encroach on Sweden are the reasons for the feeling existing between Sweden and Russia.

TURKISH ENVOY IN BERLIN.

Discusses Ottoman Situation With German Officials.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, March 14.—The Bern correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphed: "Nabi Bey, former Turkish Ambassador to Italy, who now resides at Lucerne, is reported to be in Berlin discussing the Turkish situation with the German Government. It is stated that he first talked over the situation with Prince von Bülow, the former German Imperial Chancellor, when the latter was at Lucerne."

"The rumor that the Turkish Government is instructed to notify Germany that Turkey will conclude peace unless four German army corps are sent to Turkey is probably untrue."

A Bucharest despatch says that the German Minister to Rumania, Baron von Bernstorff-Haldenhausen, left today for Berlin.

TRADE FLOWS TO U. S. BOTTOMS

Increase in American Tonnage in South American Business.

Commenting on the increase of American tonnage in the South American trade, an American shipping man said yesterday that foreign-owned vessels which formerly did nearly all the transportation between the United States and South America were gradually disappearing, and that now 75 per cent of the trade is carried in American, Brazilian and Argentine bottoms; about 15 per cent, belongs to neutral countries and 10 per cent, to the nations at war, except Germany.

Thus, the shipping man said, natural conditions were anticipating the position outlined in the Alexander shipping bill.

BANKER SEES LONGER WAR.

John F. Harris Says Economic Condition in Germany Is Good.

John F. Harris, banker of 15 Wall street, who arrived yesterday by the American liner St. Paul, said that the German economic situation, being fairly satisfactory, would prolong the war, and that Germany was successful in the war, and that the German Government would be able to meet the needs of the German military.

England, he said, was aroused, France and Russia were now on the verge of being eminently satisfactory to the Allies.

GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY IN NEW VERDUN ATTACK

Continued from First Page.

particularly in the sector of Eix, but otherwise there is nothing of importance to report in this section.
In the forest of La Prete a detachment of German troops endeavored to surprise the French trenches at Croix des Carmes, was received by a fusillade and compelled to disperse, leaving several dead on the field. The remainder of the front.

German Report Victories in Air.

The German official statement is as follows:

Generally speaking there was no change. A small engagement near Wille, northeast of Ypres, ended in the British being driven back. A British aeroplane was shot down by Lieut. Immelmann east of Arras and one west of Bapaume. The occupants were dead.

Lieut. Boelcke brought down two enemy aeroplanes, which fell behind the French lines over Fort Marre and near Melancourt, northwest of Verdun. The latter was destroyed by our artillery. By these achievements these officers have put hors de combat their tenth and eleventh enemy aeroplanes respectively.

British biplane was compelled to land west of Cambrai after an aerial fight.

British Shell German Trenches.

The following report from British headquarters in France was issued today:

"Mr. Tennant said the lists of those in 'reserved occupations' and those in 'starred' and reserved occupations are being revised and the Government's pledge will be faithfully carried out. Lord Derby will not let married men down. Officers would be selected from the ranks. Before they are gassed they will receive four months' training in a special corps."

During the present financial year, he said, 11,000,000 army garmen would be made. 2,000,000 goat skins had been prepared for the men in the trenches.

Mr. Tennant read a message from Sir Douglas Haig, commander in chief of the British army in France, testifying to the excellent provision made for the army. Sir Douglas Haig added:

"All are in good health and good heart and are confident of victory."
The Under Secretary for War proposed to apply the scale of air defence agreed upon for London to the whole country. Great Britain, he said, was now providing monthly as many qualified air pilots as was able to mobilize from all her resources in August, 1914. This output, he said, would be largely increased in the near future. The supply of aircraft, he said, was satisfactory and was ahead of the supply of engines and pilots.

Noel Pemberton Billing, the former member of the House of Commons, made a speech in the course of the estimates debate. He urged a more aggressive air policy and advised the Admiralty should order that all existing material be employed in raiding German territory.

FRANCE NEEDS $1,560,000,000.

Cost of the War Is Increasing at a Rapid Rate.

PARIS, March 14.—Credits amounting to $400,000,000 ($1,560,000,000) are needed for the second quarter of 1916, Raoul Peret, reporter of the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies, announced yesterday in the Chamber.

The increasing cost of the war to France and also to all the other nations is shown by the fact that for the entire year of 1915 the total expenses were $2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000), while for the first half of 1916 the sum of $1,560,000,000 ($6,240,000,000) is required. The total expenses for 1914, up to July 1, 1916, will be about $1,700,000,000 ($6,800,000,000), of which $1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) is for the war.

Sweden Preparing for War.
Air Defence Organized for Stockholm. It is Reported.

COPENHAGEN, March 14.—Reports have reached here that Sweden is making preparations for war. It is stated that organizations have collected, with the sanction of the Government, 700,000 kroner ($180,000) for the defence of Stockholm against air raids.

Anti-aircraft guns, it is said, are being placed on the hills about Stockholm, and aeroplanes have been purchased.

Rumors that Sweden would join Germany to fight against Russia have been published several times, but they have always been denied. The sympathy of the Swedish people for the Allies under the Russian Government and the fear that Russia would encroach on Sweden are the reasons for the feeling existing between Sweden and Russia.

TURKISH ENVOY IN BERLIN.

Discusses Ottoman Situation With German Officials.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, March 14.—The Bern correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphed: "Nabi Bey, former Turkish Ambassador to Italy, who now resides at Lucerne, is reported to be in Berlin discussing the Turkish situation with the German Government. It is stated that he first talked over the situation with Prince von Bülow, the former German Imperial Chancellor, when the latter was at Lucerne."

"The rumor that the Turkish Government is instructed to notify Germany that Turkey will conclude peace unless four German army corps are sent to Turkey is probably untrue."

A Bucharest despatch says that the German Minister to Rumania, Baron von Bernstorff-Haldenhausen, left today for Berlin.

TRADE FLOWS TO U. S. BOTTOMS

Increase in American Tonnage in South American Business.

Commenting on the increase of American tonnage in the South American trade, an American shipping man said yesterday that foreign-owned vessels which formerly did nearly all the transportation between the United States and South America were gradually disappearing, and that now 75 per cent of the trade is carried in American, Brazilian and Argentine bottoms; about 15 per cent, belongs to neutral countries and 10 per cent, to the nations at war, except Germany.

Thus, the shipping man said, natural conditions were anticipating the position outlined in the Alexander shipping bill.

BANKER SEES LONGER WAR.

John F. Harris Says Economic Condition in Germany Is Good.

John F. Harris, banker of 15 Wall street, who arrived yesterday by the American liner St. Paul, said that the German economic situation, being fairly satisfactory, would prolong the war, and that Germany was successful in the war, and that the German Government would be able to meet the needs of the German military.

England, he said, was aroused, France and Russia were now on the verge of being eminently satisfactory to the Allies.

GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY IN NEW VERDUN ATTACK

Continued from First Page.

particularly in the sector of Eix, but otherwise there is nothing of importance to report in this section.
In the forest of La Prete a detachment of German troops endeavored to surprise the French trenches at Croix des Carmes, was received by a fusillade and compelled to disperse, leaving several dead on the field. The remainder of the front.

German Report Victories in Air.

The German official statement is as follows:

Generally speaking there was no change. A small engagement near Wille, northeast of Ypres, ended in the British being driven back. A British aeroplane was shot down by Lieut. Immelmann east of Arras and one west of Bapaume. The occupants were dead.

Lieut. Boelcke brought down two enemy aeroplanes, which fell behind the French lines over Fort Marre and near Melancourt, northwest of Verdun. The latter was destroyed by our artillery. By these achievements these officers have put hors de combat their tenth and eleventh enemy aeroplanes respectively.

British biplane was compelled to land west of Cambrai after an aerial fight.

British Shell German Trenches.

The following report from British headquarters in France was issued today:

"Mr. Tennant said the lists of those in 'reserved occupations' and those in 'starred' and reserved occupations are being revised and the Government's pledge will be faithfully carried out. Lord Derby will not let married men down. Officers would be selected from the ranks. Before they are gassed they will receive four months' training in a special corps."

During the present financial year, he said, 11,000,000 army garmen would be made. 2,000,000 goat skins had been prepared for the men in the trenches.

Mr. Tennant read a message from Sir Douglas Haig, commander in chief of the British army in France, testifying to the excellent provision made for the army. Sir Douglas Haig added:

"All are in good health and good heart and are confident of victory."
The Under Secretary for War proposed to apply the scale of air defence agreed upon for London to the whole country. Great Britain, he said, was now providing monthly as many qualified air pilots as was able to mobilize from all her resources in August, 1914. This output, he said, would be largely increased in the near future. The supply of aircraft, he said, was satisfactory and was ahead of the supply of engines and pilots.

Noel Pemberton Billing, the former member of the House of Commons, made a speech in the course of the estimates debate. He urged a more aggressive air policy and advised the Admiralty should order that all existing material be employed in raiding German territory.

FRANCE NEEDS $1,560,000,000.

Cost of the War Is Increasing at a Rapid Rate.

PARIS, March 14.—Credits amounting to $400,000,000 ($1,560,000,000) are needed for the second quarter of 1916, Raoul Peret, reporter of the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies, announced yesterday in the Chamber.

The increasing cost of the war to France and also to all the other nations is shown by the fact that for the entire year of 1915 the total expenses were $2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000), while for the first half of 1916 the sum of $1,560,000,000 ($6,240,000,000) is required. The total expenses for 1914, up to July 1, 1916, will be about $1,700,000,000 ($6,800,000,000), of which $1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) is for the war.

Sweden Preparing for War.
Air Defence Organized for Stockholm. It is Reported.

COPENHAGEN, March 14.—Reports have reached here that Sweden is making preparations for war. It is stated that organizations have collected, with the sanction of the Government, 700,000 kroner ($180,000) for the defence of Stockholm against air raids.

Anti-aircraft guns, it is said, are being placed on the hills about Stockholm, and aeroplanes have been purchased.

Rumors that Sweden would join Germany to fight against Russia have been published several times, but they have always been denied. The sympathy of the Swedish people for the Allies under the Russian Government and the fear that Russia would encroach on Sweden are the reasons for the feeling existing between Sweden and Russia.

TURKISH ENVOY IN BERLIN.

Discusses Ottoman Situation With German Officials.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, March 14.—The Bern correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphed: "Nabi Bey, former Turkish Ambassador to Italy, who now resides at Lucerne, is reported to be in Berlin discussing the Turkish situation with the German Government. It is stated that he first talked over the situation with Prince von Bülow, the former German Imperial Chancellor, when the latter was at Lucerne."

"The rumor that the Turkish Government is instructed to notify Germany that Turkey will conclude peace unless four German army corps are sent to Turkey is probably untrue."

A Bucharest despatch says that the German Minister to Rumania, Baron von Bernstorff-Haldenhausen, left today for Berlin.

TRADE FLOWS TO U. S. BOTTOMS

Increase in American Tonnage in South American Business.

Commenting on the increase of American tonnage in the South American trade, an American shipping man said yesterday that foreign-owned vessels which formerly did nearly all the transportation between the United States and South America were gradually disappearing, and that now 75 per cent of the trade is carried in American, Brazilian and Argentine bottoms; about 15 per cent, belongs to neutral countries and 10 per cent, to the nations at war, except Germany.

Thus, the shipping man said, natural conditions were anticipating the position outlined in the Alexander shipping bill.

BANKER SEES LONGER WAR.

John F. Harris Says Economic Condition in Germany Is Good.

John F. Harris, banker of 15 Wall street, who arrived yesterday by the American liner St. Paul, said that the German economic situation, being fairly satisfactory, would prolong the war, and that Germany was successful in the war, and that the German Government would be able to meet the needs of the German military.

England, he said, was aroused, France and Russia were now on the verge of being eminently satisfactory to the Allies.

GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY IN NEW VERDUN ATTACK

Continued from First Page.

particularly in the sector of Eix, but otherwise there is nothing of importance to report in this section.
In the forest of La Prete a detachment of German troops endeavored to surprise the French trenches at Croix des Carmes, was received by a fusillade and compelled to disperse, leaving several dead on the field. The remainder of the front.

German Report Victories in Air.

The German official statement is as follows:

Generally speaking there was no change. A small engagement near Wille, northeast of Ypres, ended in the British being driven back. A British aeroplane was shot down by Lieut. Immelmann east of Arras and one west of Bapaume. The occupants were dead.

Lieut. Boelcke brought down two enemy aeroplanes, which fell behind the French lines over Fort Marre and near Melancourt, northwest of Verdun. The latter was destroyed by our artillery. By these achievements these officers have put hors de combat their tenth and eleventh enemy aeroplanes respectively.

British biplane was compelled to land west of Cambrai after an aerial fight.

British Shell German Trenches.

The following report from British headquarters in France was issued today:

"Mr. Tennant said the lists of those in 'reserved occupations' and those in 'starred' and reserved occupations are being revised and the Government's pledge will be faithfully carried out. Lord Derby will not let married men down. Officers would be selected from the ranks. Before they are gassed they will receive four months' training in a special corps."

During the present financial year, he said, 11,000,000 army garmen would be made. 2,000,000 goat skins had been prepared for the men in the trenches.

Mr. Tennant read a message from Sir Douglas Haig, commander in chief of the British army in France, testifying to the excellent provision made for the army. Sir Douglas Haig added:

"All are in good health and good heart and are confident of victory."
The Under Secretary for War proposed to apply the scale of air defence agreed upon for London to the whole country. Great Britain, he said, was now providing monthly as many qualified air pilots as was able to mobilize from all her resources in August, 1914. This output, he said, would be largely increased in the near future. The supply of aircraft, he said, was satisfactory and was ahead of the supply of engines and pilots.

Noel Pemberton Billing, the former member of the House of Commons, made a speech in the course of the estimates debate. He urged a more aggressive air policy and advised the Admiralty should order that all existing material be employed in raiding German territory.

FRANCE NEEDS $1,560,000,000.

Cost of the War Is Increasing at a Rapid Rate.

PARIS, March 14.—Credits amounting to $400,000,000 ($1,560,000,000) are needed for the second quarter of 1916, Raoul Peret, reporter of the budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies, announced yesterday in the Chamber.

The increasing cost of the war to France and also to all the other nations is shown by the fact that for the entire year of 1915 the total expenses were $2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000), while for the first half of 1916 the sum of $1,560,000,000 ($6,240,000,000) is required. The total expenses for 1914, up to July 1, 1916, will be about $1,700,000,000 ($6,800,000,000), of which $1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) is for the war.

Sweden Preparing for War.
Air Defence Organized for Stockholm. It is Reported.

COPENHAGEN, March 14.—Reports have reached here that Sweden is making preparations for war. It is stated that organizations have collected, with the sanction of the Government, 700,000 kroner ($180,000) for the defence of Stockholm against air raids.

Anti-aircraft guns, it is said, are being placed on the hills about Stockholm, and aeroplanes have been purchased.

Rumors that Sweden would join Germany to fight against Russia have been published several times, but they have always been denied. The sympathy of the Swedish people for the Allies under the Russian Government and the fear that Russia would encroach on Sweden are the reasons for the feeling existing between Sweden and Russia.

TURKISH ENVOY IN BERLIN.

Discusses Ottoman Situation With German Officials.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, March 14.—The Bern correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphed: "Nabi Bey, former Turkish Ambassador to Italy, who now resides at Lucerne, is reported to be in Berlin discussing the Turkish situation with the German Government. It is stated that he first talked over the situation with Prince von Bülow, the former German Imperial Chancellor, when the latter was at Lucerne."

"The rumor that the Turkish Government is instructed to notify Germany that Turkey will conclude peace unless four German army corps are sent to Turkey is probably untrue."

A Bucharest despatch says that the German Minister to Rumania, Baron von Bernstorff-Haldenhausen, left today for Berlin.

TRADE FLOWS TO U. S. BOTTOMS

Increase in American Tonnage in South American Business.

Commenting on the increase of American tonnage in the South American trade, an American shipping man said yesterday that foreign-owned vessels which formerly did nearly all the transportation between the United States and South America were gradually disappearing, and that now 75 per cent of the trade is carried in American, Brazilian and Argentine bottoms; about 15 per cent, belongs to neutral countries and 10 per cent, to the nations at war, except Germany.

Thus, the shipping man said, natural conditions were anticipating the position outlined in the Alexander shipping bill.

BANKER SEES LONGER WAR.

John F. Harris Says Economic Condition in Germany Is Good.

John F. Harris, banker of 15 Wall street, who arrived yesterday by the American liner St. Paul, said that the German economic situation, being fairly satisfactory, would prolong the war, and that Germany was successful in the war, and that the German Government would be able to meet the needs of the German military.

England, he said, was aroused, France and Russia were now on the verge of being eminently satisfactory to the Allies.

GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY IN NEW VERDUN ATTACK

Continued from First Page.

particularly in the sector of Eix, but otherwise there is nothing of importance to report in this section.
In the forest of La Prete a detachment of German troops endeavored to surprise the French trenches at Croix des Carmes, was received by a fusillade and compelled to disperse, leaving several dead on the field. The remainder of the front.

German Report Victories in Air.

The German official statement is as follows:

Generally speaking there was no change. A small engagement near Wille, northeast of Ypres, ended in the British being driven back. A British aeroplane was shot down by Lieut. Immelmann east of Arras and one west of Bapaume. The occupants were dead.

Lieut. Boelcke brought down two enemy aeroplanes, which fell behind the French lines over Fort Marre and near Melancourt, northwest of Verdun. The latter was destroyed by our artillery. By these achievements these officers have put hors de combat their tenth and eleventh enemy aeroplanes respectively.

British biplane was compelled to land west of Cambrai after an aerial fight.

British Shell German Trenches.

The following report from British headquarters in France was issued today:

"Mr. Tennant said the lists of those in 'reserved occupations' and those in 'starred' and reserved occupations are being revised and the Government's pledge will be faithfully carried out. Lord Derby will not let married men down. Officers would be selected from the ranks. Before they are gassed they will receive four months' training in a special corps."

During the present financial year, he said, 11,000,000 army garmen would be made. 2,000,000 goat skins had been prepared for the men in the trenches.

Mr. Tennant read a message from Sir Douglas Haig, commander in chief of the British army in France, testifying to the excellent provision made for the army. Sir Douglas Haig added:

"All are in good health and good heart and are confident of victory."
The Under Secretary for War proposed to apply the scale of air defence agreed upon for London to the whole country. Great Britain, he said, was now providing monthly as many qualified air pilots as was able to mobilize from all her resources in August, 1914. This output, he said, would be largely increased in the near future. The supply of aircraft, he said, was satisfactory and was ahead of the supply of engines and pilots.

Noel Pemberton Billing, the former member of the House of Commons, made a speech in the course of the estimates debate. He urged a more aggressive air policy and advised the Admiralty should order that all existing material be employed in raiding German territory.

FRANCE NEEDS $1,560,000,000.

Cost of the War Is Increasing at a Rapid Rate.

PARIS, March 14.—Credits amounting to $400,000,000 ($1,560,000,000) are needed for the second quarter of 1916, Raoul Peret, reporter of the budget committee of the Chamber of De